

ENVIRONMENTAL COMPLIANCE OFFICER: The Tulalip Tribes of Washington currently have a position opening for a full time temporary position. Reviews development applications and permits for environmental impacts to natural resources of concern to the Tulalip Tribes; within the Tribes 'usual and accustomed area'. Provides sound environmental and low impact development solutions to applications and permits that are inadequate or have potential to damage natural resources of Tribal importance. Application review may require performing stormwater analysis, buffer, wetland, stream assessments and air quality monitoring. Position responsibilities also include responding to changes to land use policy changes on the local and state level. This staff person will also perform independent compliance assessments of developments. This position has coordination requirements with Tribal, local and state agencies and will also be responsible for locating and procuring future funding. This is a one year position. Continued employment is dependent upon funding. Minimum education and experience requirements include an M.S. degree in environmental engineering or in environmental planning with an emphasis in engineering with two years of experience in either field. For more information contact www.tulaliptribes.com or (360) 651-3686.